FRICATIVE

Meaning: A fricative is a consonant sound produced by forcing air through a narrow constriction in the vocal tract, which can be either voiced or voiceless.

1. A fricative is a type of consonant sound produced by forcing air through a narrow channel.
2. In linguistics, fricatives can be voiced or voiceless, depending on whether the vocal cords vibrate during articulation.
3. The English language contains several fricative sounds, such as 'f', 'v', 's', and 'z'.
4. Children often find fricatives more challenging to pronounce than plosive sounds.
5. Phonetic exercises frequently emphasize the production of fricative sounds to improve articulation skills.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/fricative