

FUDGE

Meaning: Fudge (verb): to manipulate or alter information or facts dishonestly in order to deceive or mislead.

1. She decided to fudge the numbers in her report to make the project's success look more impressive.
2. After realizing that his explanation was lacking, he tried to fudge his way through the rest of the presentation.
3. The chocolate fudge was so rich and creamy that everyone at the party couldn't resist going back for seconds.
4. In an attempt to avoid confrontation, she chose to fudge the truth rather than reveal her true feelings.
5. The teacher warned the students not to fudge their answers on the exam, as it would only hurt their learning in the long run.
6. She decided to fudge the numbers in her report to make the project look more successful than it actually was.
7. The chocolate fudge melted in my mouth, leaving a rich and creamy aftertaste.
8. Rather than admit he was wrong, he chose to fudge his explanation and shift the blame to someone else.
9. The teacher caught him trying to fudge his homework by copying answers from a classmate.
10. For dessert, we opted for a warm fudge sundae topped with whipped cream and nuts.