

GALVANOSCOPY

Meaning: Galvanoscopy is a technique used to measure electrical currents in biological tissues and cellular structures for research purposes.

1. Galvanoscopy is often used in research to study the electrical properties of biological tissues.
2. The technique of galvanoscopy allows scientists to measure small currents within cellular structures.
3. Advancements in galvanoscopy have improved our understanding of nerve signal transmission.
4. In the laboratory, galvanoscopy can help detect abnormalities in muscle response to stimuli.
5. Researchers are exploring new applications of galvanoscopy in the field of neurology.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/galvanoscopy>