

GENERIFICATION

Meaning: Generification is the process of making something more general or common, often resulting in a loss of specificity or uniqueness.

1. Generification of language can lead to a loss of unique cultural expressions.
2. The process of generification often dilutes the specificity of technical terminology.
3. In literature, generification can transform complex characters into archetypal figures.
4. Critics argue that generification in art reduces the richness of individual styles.
5. The generification of cuisine can result in the homogenization of regional flavors.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/generification>