

GERMANIZATION

Meaning: Germanization is the process of assimilating non-German ethnic groups into German culture, often affecting local languages and traditions.

1. The policy of Germanization in the early 20th century aimed to assimilate various ethnic groups into German culture.
2. Many historians argue that the process of Germanization had profound effects on the local languages and traditions of the regions affected.
3. In the context of the Austro-Hungarian Empire, Germanization was seen as a means to unify diverse populations under a single national identity.
4. Critics of Germanization often highlight the cultural erasure that accompanied this push for national homogeneity.
5. The legacy of Germanization can still be felt today in the mixed cultural heritage of central and eastern European countries.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/germanization>