

GLIB

Meaning: Glib: marked by ease and fluency in speaking or writing often to the point of being insincere or superficial.

1. His glib remarks during the presentation made it clear he hadn't researched the topic thoroughly.
2. She found his glib assurances unconvincing, as they seemed to lack any depth or sincerity.
3. The politician's glib responses to tough questions left many voters feeling uneasy about his honesty.
4. Despite his glib demeanor, she sensed a deeper insecurity lurking beneath the surface.
5. The salesman was so glib that she began to question whether he was hiding any important details.
6. His glib remarks during the meeting failed to convince anyone of his sincerity.
7. She had a glib way of dismissing serious concerns that left her colleagues frustrated.
8. Despite his glib charm, many suspected he was hiding his true intentions.
9. The politician's glib promises during the campaign were soon forgotten after the election.
10. It's easy to be glib when discussing complex issues, but real understanding requires depth.
11. His glib manner made it hard to trust his promises.
12. She delivered a glib response that left many in the audience unconvinced.
13. Despite his glib conversation, I sensed a deeper insecurity lurking beneath the surface.
14. The politician's glib remarks failed to address the serious issues at hand.
15. Her glib assurances did little to alleviate my concerns about the project.
16. His glib remarks during the interview left many doubting his genuine interest in the position.
17. She had a glib way of expressing her thoughts, which often masked her lack of depth on the subject.
18. The politician's glib assurances did little to alleviate the public's concerns about the unfolding crisis.
19. Despite his glib demeanor, it was clear that he was struggling to connect with the audience.

20. Her glib responses to serious questions made it hard for others to take her seriously.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/glib>