

GRANULATE

Meaning: To granulate means to convert a substance into granules or small, cohesive particles to improve its handling and application properties.

1. The pharmacist decided to granulate the powdered medication to enhance its flow characteristics.
2. Farmers often granulate fertilizer to improve its application efficiency and reduce dust.
3. In the laboratory, they needed to granulate the chemical compounds before mixing them for the experiment.
4. To improve the texture of the final product, the chef chose to granulate the sugar for the recipe.
5. The environmental agency recommended that companies granulate their waste materials to facilitate recycling.
6. To granulate the sugar effectively, you should use a food processor for even consistency.
7. The chemist decided to granulate the powder to improve its solubility in water.
8. During the manufacturing process, it is essential to granulate the materials to ensure proper flowability.
9. The recipe called for granulated garlic, which added a more concentrated flavor to the dish.
10. In the lab, researchers observed how different additives could influence the ability to granulate the compound.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/granulate>