

HALF-TIMBERED

Meaning: Half-timbered refers to a style of construction characterized by a frame of timber with the spaces between filled with materials such as plaster or brick, commonly seen in medieval buildings.

1. The quaint village is known for its charming half-timbered houses that date back to the medieval period.
2. As we strolled through the old town, we marveled at the intricate designs of the half-timbered architecture.
3. The half-timbered construction not only adds character to the buildings but also provides excellent insulation.
4. During our visit to Germany, we were captivated by the picturesque streets lined with half-timbered structures.
5. She decided to renovate her half-timbered cottage, preserving its historic charm while adding modern amenities.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/half-timbered>