HETEROPHONY

Meaning: Heterophony is a musical texture characterized by the simultaneous variation of a single melody by different voices or instruments.

1. Heterophony can be observed in traditional music where multiple variations of a melody are sung simultaneously.

2. The concept of heterophony challenges the notion of a single, fixed musical line, allowing for creative interpretation.

3. In ethnomusicology, researchers often study heterophony to understand how different cultures approach musical expression.

4. The choir’s performance featured heterophony, with each singer adding their own unique embellishments to the main theme.

5. Heterophony is distinct from homophony, as it emphasizes individual creativity within a shared harmonic framework.
