

HYDROPHOBY

Meaning: Hydrophoby is the characteristic of being water-repellent, enabling certain animals to prevent water from saturating their fur or feathers, thus aiding in their survival in wet environments.

1. Hydrophoby in certain animals helps them survive in wet environments by preventing water from saturating their fur or feathers.
2. The concept of hydrophoby can be observed in various species, showcasing nature's adaptation mechanisms.
3. Research on hydrophoby has implications for understanding how different organisms interact with their aquatic surroundings.
4. Scientists are studying hydrophoby to develop materials that can repel water, which could revolutionize various industries.
5. Hydrophoby is not just a physical trait; it can also influence behavior and habitat selection in diverse species.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/hydrophoby>