

IMPIGNORATE

Meaning: To impignorate means to pledge or use assets as collateral to secure a loan or funding.

1. The legal team prepared to impignorate the assets to secure the necessary funding for the project.
2. In an effort to streamline the process, the company decided to impignorate their property as collateral for the loan.
3. The contract clearly stated the terms under which they could impignorate the intellectual property rights.
4. To ensure stability, the organization chose to impignorate its real estate holdings during the financial crisis.
5. Investors were hesitant to support the venture until they understood how the company planned to impignorate its key assets.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/impignorate>