

IMPLICATIVELY

Meaning: Implicatively refers to suggesting or indicating something indirectly or implicitly, rather than stating it outright.

1. The author implicatively suggested that the protagonist's choices were influenced by past traumas.
2. In her speech, she spoke implicatively about the need for reform without directly naming any specific policies.
3. The film's ending implicatively hinted at the possibility of redemption for the flawed character.
4. By choosing his words carefully, he implicatively criticized the company's unethical practices without outright condemnation.
5. The artwork was designed to convey emotions implicatively, encouraging viewers to reflect on their own experiences.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/implicatively>