

INDUCTIVELY

Meaning: Inductively refers to a method of reasoning that involves drawing general conclusions from specific instances or observations.

1. The scientist approached the problem inductively, drawing broader conclusions from specific observations.
2. Inductively reasoning about the data, she was able to formulate a compelling hypothesis.
3. In his lecture, he explained how we often learn inductively, piecing together information from our experiences.
4. The detective solved the case inductively, connecting the dots between seemingly unrelated clues.
5. By analyzing trends inductively, the market analyst predicted future consumer behavior with remarkable accuracy.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/inductively>