

INEBRIATE

Meaning: INEBRIATE: to intoxicate or make someone drunk; to fill with a sense of exhilaration or excitement.

1. The advent of the new cocktail bar seemed to inebriate the entire neighborhood with its vibrant atmosphere.
2. It was hard to concentrate on my work with the inebriated laughter echoing from the nearby party.
3. She watched her friends inebriate themselves at the gathering, wondering if she should join in or remain sober.
4. The inebriate stumbled out of the pub, oblivious to the world around him.
5. Inebriated by the festivities, he danced without a care, lost in the moment.
6. The party was filled with inebriated guests who laughed loudly and danced carelessly.
7. After a few rounds of drinks, he became quite inebriate and struggled to find his words.
8. The inebriate stumbled down the street, oblivious to the concerned looks from passersby.
9. She often wondered how many inebriated nights it would take to forget her heartache.
10. His inebriate state led to some regrettable decisions that he would later try to justify.
11. He couldn't help but inebriate himself with the joyful atmosphere of the celebration.
12. After a long week, they gathered to inebriate their worries away with good company and laughter.
13. The wine flowed freely, causing many to inebriate themselves well into the night.
14. As the party progressed, it became clear that several guests had chosen to inebriate more than they intended.
15. Cautioning his friends, he reminded them not to inebriate too much before their big presentation.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/inebriate>