

IRREPRESENTABLE

Meaning: Irrepresentable refers to something that cannot be adequately represented or reproduced, often due to its inherent complexity or uniqueness.

1. The complexity of the artist's vision rendered the emotions in her work irrepressible and irreproachable, yet ultimately irreproducible.
2. In mathematics, certain concepts are deemed irreducible, making them irrepressible in their necessity for advanced theories.
3. The committee found the evidence presented in the debate to be irreconcilable with the established facts, thus rendering their claims irreproachable.
4. His unique perspective on life was so profound that it felt irrepressible, transcending conventional understanding.
5. Despite the team's efforts to simplify the findings, the underlying data remained irreducible, challenging their interpretations.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/irrepresentable>