

IRRHETORICAL

Meaning: IRRHETORICAL (adjective): characterized by a lack of rhetorical flourish or persuasive language, focusing instead on straightforward communication and genuine expression.

1. His speech was so irrhetorical that it seemed more like a conversation than a performance.
2. The artist's irrhetorical approach to storytelling captivated the audience by emphasizing raw emotion over persuasive techniques.
3. In an irrhetorical manner, she shared her experiences, allowing her authenticity to resonate with everyone in the room.
4. The author's irrhetorical style challenges the reader to think critically rather than simply accept the narrative.
5. Despite the gravity of the topic, the lecturer maintained an irrhetorical tone that encouraged open dialogue rather than debate.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/irrhetorical>