

LEADHILLITE

Meaning: Leadhillite is a rare mineral consisting mainly of lead sulfate, typically found in oxidized lead deposits.

1. Leadhillite is a rare mineral that is primarily composed of lead and sulfur.
2. The geologist explained that leadhillite can often be found in oxidized zones of lead deposits.
3. During the field trip, the students were excited to learn how to identify leadhillite among other minerals.
4. In the mineral collection, the leadhillite specimen stood out due to its unique yellow-green color.
5. Researchers are studying leadhillite for its potential uses in various industrial applications.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/leadhillite>