

LEUCOSCOPE

Meaning: A leucoscope is an instrument used to measure the light scattering and reflectivity properties of materials, particularly in scientific research.

1. A leucoscope is often used in scientific studies to analyze the light scattering properties of various materials.
2. Researchers utilized a leucoscope to measure the reflectivity of different pigments under controlled lighting conditions.
3. In optics classes, students frequently experiment with a leucoscope to better understand color perception and light behavior.
4. The results obtained from the leucoscope allowed scientists to draw significant conclusions about the optical qualities of the sample.
5. With the leucoscope, the team was able to visualize the spectral responses of the substances they were testing.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/leucoscope>