

MACROPINACOID

Meaning: Macropinacoid refers to a specific type of crystal face or plane in mineralogy that is characterized by its large, flat surfaces, often associated with certain mineral formations.

1. The macropinacoid structure is a defining feature of certain mineral formations.
2. Researchers studied the macropinacoid in order to better understand its crystallographic properties.
3. In the context of geology, a macropinacoid can significantly influence the overall stability of a rock formation.
4. The identification of a macropinacoid can provide insights into the environmental conditions during mineral growth.
5. Geologists often encounter macropinacoids when examining the layered structures of metamorphic rocks.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/macropinacoid>