

MACRURAL

Meaning: Macrural refers to organisms, particularly fish and insects, characterized by elongated bodies or structures, often associated with adaptations for swift movement or specific anatomical features.

1. The macrural species of fish are known for their elongated bodies and swift movements.
2. In the study of insects, macrural anatomy plays a crucial role in understanding their evolutionary adaptations.
3. The biologist focused her research on the macrural features that distinguish this group from others.
4. In his presentation, he highlighted the unique macrural characteristics that enable these organisms to thrive in their environments.
5. The documentary explored the macrural diversity found within the freshwater ecosystems of the region.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/macrural>