

MALACISSATION

Meaning: Malacissation is the process of softening of mollusk shells, often as a result of environmental factors such as ocean acidification.

1. Malacissation in the context of marine biology refers to the softening of mollusk shells due to environmental changes.
2. The study focused on the malacissation of bivalves, highlighting the potential impacts of ocean acidification.
3. Researchers observed malacissation in the local clam population, which could threaten the species' survival.
4. Efforts to mitigate malacissation include restoring natural habitats and reducing carbon emissions.
5. The phenomenon of malacissation raises concerns about the future of seafood industries reliant on shellfish.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/malacissation>