

MANDARINISM

Meaning: Mandarinism refers to the distinctive linguistic and stylistic features of the Mandarin Chinese language, particularly its ability to express nuanced emotions and cultural concepts.

1. Mandarinism can often be seen in the intricate way the language conveys subtle emotions.
2. The scholar's research focused on the influence of Mandarinism in contemporary Chinese literature.
3. In conversations with native speakers, one can easily identify instances of Mandarinism that reflect cultural nuances.
4. The rise of Mandarinism in the global market highlights the importance of understanding regional dialects.
5. Her poetry was rich with Mandarinism, beautifully intertwining traditional expressions with modern themes.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/mandarinism>