

MAUDLE

Meaning: Maudle: to engage in sentimental or tearful reflection, often reminiscing about the past.

1. The professor's lecture was so dull that I found myself maudling about the missed opportunity for excitement.
2. As she sat by the window, maudling over old photographs, tears streamed down her cheeks.
3. He tends to maudle when he drinks too much, reminiscing about the past in a bittersweet manner.
4. After the breakup, she spent her evenings maudling alone in her favorite café, lost in thought.
5. Their conversations often turned maudling, filled with nostalgia for days gone by that they could never reclaim.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/maudle>