

MERITMONGER

Meaning: Meritmonger: a person who excessively seeks or trades in praise and accolades, often insincerely or superficially.

1. The meritmonger reveled in the accolades he received, but few recognized the insincerity behind his praise.
2. In a world driven by genuine talent, the meritmonger stood out as a master of superficial recognition.
3. Her reputation as a meritmonger left her peers questioning the authenticity of her achievements.
4. Despite being labeled a meritmonger, he believed that his endorsements could genuinely uplift deserving individuals.
5. The meritmonger's influence was both praised and criticized, as he often blurred the line between true merit and mere favoritism.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/meritmonger>