

MISCOPY

Meaning: MISCOPY (noun): an incorrect or faulty reproduction of text or data that may lead to misunderstandings or errors.

1. The report was rejected due to a miscopy of critical data.
2. She realized there was a miscopy in the contract that could lead to legal issues.
3. After reviewing the documents, they discovered a miscopy that altered the intended meaning.
4. The miscopy in the manuscript required the author to issue a correction.
5. To avoid confusion, please double-check for any miscopies before sending the final version.
6. The document was returned due to a miscopy of critical data, causing delays in the project.
7. After reviewing the report, it was clear that a miscopy had occurred in the financial figures.
8. To avoid miscopy in the final print, the team implemented a double-check system.
9. She discovered a miscopy in her notes that changed the entire conclusion of her research.
10. The editor pointed out a miscopy in the manuscript that needed immediate correction before publication.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/miscopy>