

MISS

Meaning: Miss (verb): to feel regret or sadness over the absence of someone or something, or to fail to attend or experience an event.

1. I miss the days when we would play outside until sunset.
2. She didn't want to miss the concert, so she arrived early.
3. After moving away, he often felt a deep miss for his hometown.
4. It's easy to miss the small details when you're in a hurry.
5. I miss having long conversations with my grandmother over tea.
6. I really miss the days when we would spend hours talking without distractions.
7. She felt a pang of sadness as she realized how much she missed her childhood friends.
8. It's hard not to miss the excitement of the city after moving to a quiet town.
9. He didn't want to miss the opportunity to see his favorite band perform live.
10. When I heard that she was leaving, I knew I would miss her cheerful presence at the office.
11. I really miss my hometown since I moved away for college.
12. She didn't want to miss the opportunity to see her favorite band perform live.
13. After his grandmother passed away, he often found himself reminiscing and missing her warmth.
14. If you miss the bus, you'll have to wait for the next one, which could take a while.
15. He felt a pang of sadness as he realized how much he missed his childhood friends.
16. I really miss the days when we used to spend hours talking by the river.
17. She felt a deep sense of loss, as if a piece of her heart was missing.
18. After moving to a new city, he began to miss his old friends more than he expected.
19. The children miss their father, who has been away on business for several months.
20. It's hard not to miss the familiar sights and sounds of my hometown.

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/miss>