

MONOCLINE

Meaning: A monocline is a geological formation characterized by a step-like fold in rock layers, typically indicating tectonic activity.

1. A monocline is often indicative of tectonic activity in a region.
2. Geologists identified a prominent monocline during their field study of the ancient rock formations.
3. The monocline's unique structure provided valuable insights into the area's geological history.
4. Understanding how a monocline forms can help predict potential seismic events.
5. The researchers mapped the monocline to better understand the stratigraphic layers it encompassed.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/monocline>