

MUCOPURULENT

Meaning: MUCOPURULENT: characterized by a discharge that is a mixture of mucus and pus, often indicative of infection or inflammation.

1. The patient presented with mucopurulent discharge from the affected sinuses.
2. Infections often lead to mucopurulent sputum, which can indicate a severe underlying condition.
3. The doctor noted that the mucopurulent fluid indicated a bacterial infection rather than a viral one.
4. After the surgery, the wound was examined and found to have a mucopurulent exudate.
5. Mucopurulent conjunctivitis can result in significant discomfort and vision impairment if left untreated.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/mucopurulent>