

OUTROAR

Meaning: Outroar: a loud, enthusiastic outburst of noise or excitement, typically from a crowd.

1. The crowd began to outroar with excitement as the fireworks lit up the sky.
2. As the final whistle blew, the fans let out a loud outroar, celebrating their team's victory.
3. The news of the unexpected announcement caused an outroar among the audience, filling the hall with gasps.
4. In the midst of the quiet evening, an outroar erupted from the nearby concert, shaking the windows.
5. The comedian's punchline elicited an outroar of laughter that echoed through the small club.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/outroar>