

OVERKNOWING

Meaning: Overknowing refers to the state of possessing excessive information or knowledge that impairs one's ability to make decisions or appreciate experiences.

1. Overknowing can sometimes lead to paralysis by analysis, where too much information hinders decision-making.
2. Many philosophers argue that overknowing strips away the joy of discovery and spontaneity.
3. In an age of information overload, overknowing has become a common challenge for young learners.
4. The concept of overknowing suggests that there is a limit to how much understanding can be beneficial.
5. Writers often grapple with the idea of overknowing, fearing that too much research might stifle their creativity.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/overknowing>