

OVERMULTIPLY

Meaning: Overmultiply: to excessively or inaccurately increase or exaggerate the number or significance of something.

1. The accountant warned that if we overmultiply our expenses, we could face serious financial repercussions.
2. In the heat of the moment, he tended to overmultiply the challenges he faced at work, making them seem insurmountable.
3. Teachers should be careful not to overmultiply the homework assigned to students, as it can lead to burnout.
4. She realized that when she overmultiplied her commitments, it only led to stress and decreased productivity.
5. The scientists cautioned against the tendency to overmultiply variables in their experiments, as it could complicate the results.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/overmultiply>