

PARALEIPSIS

Meaning: Paraleipsis is a rhetorical device in which a speaker emphasizes a point by feigning to omit it.

1. Paraleipsis is a rhetorical device that allows a speaker to draw attention to something by claiming to omit it.
2. In his speech, the politician used paraleipsis to subtly highlight his opponent's failures while pretending to overlook them.
3. The author skillfully employed paraleipsis to critique societal norms without directly confronting the issues.
4. By using paraleipsis, the comedian made a joke about the audience's taste while feigning modesty.
5. In her essay, she demonstrated paraleipsis by mentioning the negative impact of technology while claiming it wasn't her focus.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/paraleipsis>