

PARALIPSIS

Meaning: Paralipsis is a rhetorical device that emphasizes a point by claiming to omit it or by pretending to pass over it.

1. Paralipsis is a rhetorical device often used to draw attention to something by pretending to pass over it.
2. In her speech, she employed paralipsis to subtly criticize her opponent without directly naming him.
3. The author's clever use of paralipsis allowed readers to infer deeper meanings while seemingly skirting the main point.
4. By using paralipsis, the comedian was able to make a pointed remark about politics while maintaining a lighthearted tone.
5. His skillful application of paralipsis kept the audience engaged, as they were eager to catch what he was implying.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/paralipsis>