

PERCLOSE

Meaning: PERCLOSE (verb): To formally conclude or finalize a project, agreement, or negotiation, ensuring that no further changes can occur.

1. The team decided to perclose the project to ensure no further changes could disrupt the timeline.
2. In order to finalize the agreement, we must perclose all outstanding negotiations by the end of the week.
3. The architect suggested we perclose the design phase to move forward with construction as soon as possible.
4. To avoid any confusion, it's essential to perclose the discussions before making a formal announcement.
5. The manager emphasized the need to perclose any unresolved issues before the deadline approaches.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/perclose>