

PREDELIBERATION

Meaning: Predeliberation refers to the phase of gathering and reviewing relevant information prior to making a decision or judgment.

1. The predeliberation process allowed the committee to gather all necessary information before making a decision.
2. In legal contexts, predeliberation is crucial for ensuring that all aspects of a case are thoroughly examined.
3. The team's predeliberation meetings fostered an environment where every member could voice their opinions freely.
4. Effective predeliberation can significantly enhance the quality of the final conclusions drawn by the group.
5. During the predeliberation phase, they identified potential obstacles that could influence their final choices.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/predeliberation>