PURPURATE

Meaning: To purpurate means to add or infuse with shades of purple or to create a purplish hue.

1. The artist decided to purpurate the canvas, adding vibrant hues of purple to create an ethereal landscape.

2. After the rain, the sunset seemed to purpurate the sky, filling it with stunning shades of magenta and violet.

3. To achieve the desired effect, the fashion designer chose to purpurate the fabric with a rich, deep dye.

4. The botanist was thrilled to discover a new species of flower that could purpurate in sunlight, revealing its beauty gradually.

5. As the evening wore on, the clouds began to purpurate, signaling the onset of twilight with a spectacular display.

6. The artist decided to purpurate her latest canvas, adding vibrant shades of purple that captivated the viewers.

7. In the botanist's garden, she sought to purpurate the flowers, hoping to create a stunning display for the upcoming exhibition.

8. The sunset began to purpurate the sky, casting a beautiful hue over the tranquil landscape.

9. As the evening progressed, the clouds began to purpurate, creating a dramatic backdrop for the city skyline.

10. He used purple dye to purpurate the fabric, transforming the plain cloth into a striking piece of art.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/purpurate