RAILROADING

Meaning: Railroading refers to the act of pushing through a process or decision quickly and forcefully, often disregarding proper procedures or the opinions of others.

1. Railroading through the project, she ensured every deadline was met without delay.
2. The company's aggressive tactics felt like railroading to many employees, stifling open discussion.
3. After years of railroading by the previous administration, the new leaders promised a more inclusive decision-making process.
4. His railroading approach in negotiations often left little room for compromise.
5. The community rallied together to oppose what they saw as railroading by the developers.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/railroading