

REBARBARIZE

Meaning: To rebarbarize means to restore or enhance a place's natural, rustic, or traditional qualities, often in contrast to modern, commercialized influences.

1. The architect decided to rebarbarize the urban landscape by incorporating more natural elements into the design.
2. In an effort to restore the original charm of the town, the community sought to rebarbarize the streets that had become overly commercialized.
3. To rebarbarize the forgotten park, volunteers planted native trees and created walking paths that embraced the area's natural beauty.
4. The artist aimed to rebarbarize the neglected public space by installing vibrant murals that celebrated local culture.
5. Their initiative to rebarbarize the dilapidated neighborhood involved transforming empty lots into community gardens and gathering spaces.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/rebarbarize>