

RECEPTORY

Meaning: Receptory refers to structures or mechanisms in biological systems that receive and respond to stimuli, particularly in the context of sensory perception or cellular signaling.

1. The scientist noted that the receptory mechanisms in the brain play a crucial role in how we perceive taste.
2. In their research, they discovered a new type of receptory that could influence cell signaling pathways.
3. The receptory functions of the proteins were essential to understanding the drug's effectiveness.
4. During the experiment, the team focused on how the receptory interactions affected the overall outcome.
5. Understanding the receptory dynamics is vital for developing targeted therapies in medicine.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/receptory>