

RECOGNITORY

Meaning: RECOGNITORY: Relating to the ability to recognize or identify something, particularly in the context of distinguishing features or familiar entities.

1. The study focused on the recognitory abilities of children in distinguishing between different facial expressions.
2. Her recognitory skills were impressive, allowing her to identify familiar faces even after many years apart.
3. The therapist employed recognitory techniques to help the patient recover memories from their childhood.
4. In the realm of neuroscience, researchers are exploring the mechanisms behind recognitory processes in the human brain.
5. The recognitory aspect of the artwork lies in its ability to evoke emotions and memories from the viewers' past experiences.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/recognitory>