

RECOILMENT

Meaning: Recoilment refers to the backward movement or reaction experienced by an object, such as a spring or firearm, when force is applied or released.

1. The recoilment of the spring was so intense that it startled everyone in the room.
2. In physics, recoilment can be observed when a gun is fired and the shooter is pushed backward.
3. Her emotional recoilment from the harsh criticism was evident in her body language.
4. After the shocking news, there was a moment of recoilment among the team before they regrouped.
5. The recoilment of the waves against the shore created a mesmerizing pattern in the sand.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/recoilment>