

RECOLONIZE

Meaning: Recolonize: to restore or repopulate an area with new life, species, or structures, particularly after it has been damaged or abandoned.

1. Many scientists are exploring ways to recolonize areas that have been devastated by climate change.
2. The government proposed a plan to recolonize vacant urban spaces with green technology and innovative housing.
3. After the wildlife population declined, conservationists worked tirelessly to recolonize the area with native species.
4. Efforts to recolonize the once-thriving coral reefs have gained momentum among marine biologists.
5. Activists argued that it was essential to recolonize Indigenous lands to restore their cultural heritage.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/recolonize>