

RECOMBINE

Meaning: To recombine means to combine or assemble different components or elements again to form a new entity or structure.

1. Scientists often recombine genetic material to create new strains of crops.
2. The artist decided to recombine various elements from her previous works into a single masterpiece.
3. In order to improve performance, the engineers will recombine the existing technologies in innovative ways.
4. After the meeting, they agreed to recombine their ideas to form a more comprehensive proposal.
5. The chef likes to recombine traditional recipes with modern cooking techniques for a unique dining experience.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/recombine>