

RECOMPOSE

Meaning: Recompose: to rearrange or restructure something, such as music or a scene, to create a new version or restore it to a different state.

1. The artist decided to recompose the original melody to give it a modern twist.
2. After the storm, the landscape seemed to recompose itself into a tranquil scene.
3. In her new role, she had to recompose the team dynamics for better collaboration.
4. He took the feedback seriously and worked hard to recompose his essay for clarity.
5. To improve the flow of the story, the author chose to recompose several key chapters.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/recompose>