

RECONVERTIBLE

Meaning: RECONVERTIBLE: capable of being converted back to a previous state or form, often referring to software configurations or financial instruments like bonds that can be changed or reverted easily.

1. The reconvertible design of the software allows users to modify their configurations easily.
2. Investors are particularly interested in reconvertible bonds due to their flexibility in conversion options.
3. The new model of the car features a reconvertible roof that can adapt to both coupe and convertible styles.
4. She appreciated the reconvertible nature of the project, which allowed for adjustments as new data became available.
5. The architect proposed a reconvertible space that could serve as both an office and a living area, depending on the needs of the occupants.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/reconvertible>