

RECRIMINATION

Meaning: Recrimination refers to the act of making accusations in response to accusations, often resulting in mutual blame or countercharges.

1. The debate quickly devolved into a cycle of recrimination, with both sides blaming each other for the failure.
2. In the aftermath of the scandal, there was a wave of recrimination among the committee members regarding their decisions.
3. Recrimination can often hinder productive dialogue, as individuals become more focused on assigning blame than finding solutions.
4. During the negotiation process, any hint of recrimination can derail progress and strain relationships between the parties involved.
5. The atmosphere of recrimination made it difficult for the team to move forward after the project's disappointing outcome.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/recrimination>