

REDDENDUM

Meaning: Reddendum is a clause in a legal document, particularly in contracts or real estate agreements, that specifies rights or obligations retained by a party, often detailing what is not included in the conveyance of property.

1. The lawyer included a reddendum in the contract to clarify the seller's obligations.
2. In real estate transactions, a reddendum can serve to specify retained rights over certain properties.
3. During the negotiation, she insisted on a reddendum to protect her interests in the deal.
4. The reddendum outlined additional terms that were not covered in the original agreement.
5. Understanding the implications of a reddendum is crucial for both parties before signing.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/reddendum>