

REFEL

Meaning: Refel (verb): To revise or alter something in order to improve or enhance its quality or alignment with specific objectives.

1. The artist decided to refel the canvas to create a more vibrant background.
2. During the meeting, we needed to refel our goals to better align with the company's vision.
3. She chose to refel her wardrobe, opting for more sustainable and stylish choices.
4. After much consideration, he decided to refel his approach to the project for better results.
5. To improve the performance of the device, the engineers had to refel its core components.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/refel>