

REFUTABLE

Meaning: Refutable: capable of being proven false or invalid through evidence or argument.

1. The scientist presented a refutable hypothesis that could be tested through experimentation.
2. Many conspiracy theories are based on assumptions that are easily refutable with credible evidence.
3. In the debate, she argued her points so well that they became nearly impossible to refutable.
4. The lawyer emphasized that the allegations against her client were refutable and lacked substantial proof.
5. His claims were met with skepticism because they were based on refutable data from unreliable sources.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/refutable>