

REMITTENT

Meaning: Remittent (adjective): characterized by fluctuating symptoms, such as fever or cough, that do not completely subside but vary in intensity over time.

1. The patient's remittent fever fluctuated throughout the day, causing concern among the medical staff.
2. His remittent cough persisted for weeks, making it difficult to determine the underlying cause.
3. The remittent nature of her symptoms left the doctors puzzled, as they seemed to come and go unpredictably.
4. After several tests, they concluded that his remittent pain was likely due to an autoimmune disorder.
5. The doctor explained that a remittent illness could present periods of improvement followed by sudden exacerbations.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/remittent>